OLD Vinelife design

This is the current Vinelife Church Wimslow website which I used as inspiration for my redesign. The first thing I noticed was the structure of the website isn't very good, theres no navbar which makes navigating the website very difficult, so I decided to put in a navbar with all the content of the website divide into individual sections and adding navigation links so when you click on them they go to that section, also dividing the site into it's own sections makes everthying organised and the structure better.

The second thing I wanted to add was make sure everything works, for example when click on a button to go somewhere to another website it actually goes to it! Something else I did was to add Google Calendar API and using JavaScript so the monthly worship meetings will updated itself each month and so I won't have the manually change th code.
